CASE STUDY EXAMPLES OF COMMUNICATION STUDENT EMPLOYMENT SUCCESS

Trupti Guha has applied her knowledge from the Master's program in Applied Communication Theory and Methodology adroitly as a market research analyst at Progressive Insurance. "I have been able to utilize most of the knowledge and skills that I gained at CSU in everyday activities at my job," she states.

Adam Mawson obtained a full-time job as special sections writer and editor for The Lorain Morning Journal. "My job at The Lorain Morning Journal is great and it's nice that I have gotten my foot in the door somewhere," he says.

George Thomas took jobs at The Sandusky Register and The Beacon Journal, where he has served as a nationally syndicated columnist.

Tecia Esposito received a dream job working with high-profile HBO Documentaries team. She worked as a producer for the HBO environmental documentary, "Too Hot Not to Handle," working alongside Laurie David, former wife of "Seinfeld" creator Larry David.

Jim Brazytis is a real success story. After obtaining his B.A. in communication in 1994, he rose through the ranks of the big PR firm, Liggett-Stashower. He is an account supervisor and received the Cleveland chapter of the Public Relations Society of America's "Cleveland Rocks" award for the team's media relations work on a Cleveland arts festival.

In a similar fashion, Dwayne Bray said his years at Cleveland State writing sports and taking classes as a communication major were formative in his journalism career. He was a member of a Pulitzer Prize finalist team at The Los Angeles Times and is currently head of the investigative reporting unit for ESPN.
