

NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF HISPANIC JOURNALISTS SCHOLARSHIPS

Following are some scholarships open to students with Hispanic backgrounds. You can check them out at the following online address as well:

<http://www.nahj.org/educationalprograms/currentscholarships.shtml>

Students must plan to attend a community college or university that is within the United States or Puerto Rico full-time for the entire academic year in order to be awarded an NAHJ scholarship. Deadline February 28, 2006.

NAHJ General Broadcast Scholarship Ranging from $1,000 - $2,000 per student, these Scholarships are awarded to college undergraduates and graduate students pursuing careers in English or Spanish-language broadcast journalism.

NAHJ Maria Elena Salinas Scholarship Program This program awards two $5,000 scholarships to students who demonstrate a strong desire in pursuing a career as a Spanish-language broadcast journalist.

NAHJ Newsroom Bound Program This $4,000 three-year program offers current college freshmen and sophomores a chance to experience many of the opportunities offered by NAHJ that are intended to propel them from the classroom to the newsroom. NAHJ will select students for this program from among its scholarship recipients.

Geraldo Rivera Scholarship

Ranging from $1,000 - $5,000 per student, these scholarships are open to college undergraduates and graduate students pursuing careers in English or Spanish-language TV broadcast journalism.

CNN 25 Scholars

A total of 25 current high school seniors, freshmen, and sophomores will be selected to be the CNN 25 Scholars in 2006 and will receive scholarships ranging from $3,000 to $5,000 a year for the remainder of their college or university studies. These scholarships are made possible by a generous contribution CNN made to NAHJ to celebrate the network's 25th anniversary.

NAHJ Print General Scholarships

Ranging from $1,000 - $2,000 per student, these scholarships are awarded to college undergraduates and graduate students pursuing careers in English or Spanish-language print, photo, or online journalism.

NAHJ Newhouse Scholarship Program

This two-year $10,000 program awards two scholarships to college juniors pursuing careers in English-language print journalism. Since 1994, the Newhouse Foundation has sponsored a two-year scholarship program for print journalism students. Applicants must be current college sophomores. Recipients will have an opportunity to intern at a Newhouse newspaper following their junior year.

The Washington Post Young Journalists Scholarship

This one-year $2,500 scholarship program is for high school seniors in the metropolitan Washington, D.C. area. NAHJ and The Washington Post host an annual high school writing program through this project. The Development Project for high school students of color is specifically for students in the metropolitan Washington, D.C. area.