

Fenn College of Engineering Outstanding Teaching Faculty Award

The Outstanding Teaching Faculty Award recognizes a faculty member for excellence in engineering education. Each recipient of the Award will receive a plaque.

Eligibility

Any full or part time faculty member of Fenn College of Engineering is eligible.

Criteria

The criteria are outstanding teaching and/or innovation in engineering education during the past three years, which results in successful student learning, as evidenced by

- Outstanding classroom/laboratory teaching;
- Curriculum development;
- Other activities including writing textbooks and developing educational software.

Procedure

Any faculty member in the Fenn College of Engineering may self nominate or nominate an eligible person for this award. The nomination should include the following supporting documents:

- A one page summary of teaching excellence
- A copy of current curriculum vitae
- Any other materials chosen by the nominator to support the selection criteria