

OPPORTUNITY TO ENGAGE IN A FACULTY LEARNING COMMUNITY

As one of CSU's seven skill areas in the General Education program, Civic Engagement aims to develop students' skills in terms of leadership and communication, ethical decision making, building respectful relationships with individuals and groups of various backgrounds, and integrating academic concepts into real-world projects. Faculty interested in teaching courses with Civic Engagement components are invited to apply to participate in a Faculty Learning Community that will be introduced to the writing of syllabi, course description, objectives, assignments, and assessment. Participants will learn from colleagues who previously taught Civic Engagement courses.

Successful participants will receive $200 in professional development funds based on the following pre-requisites: a) attend two of the three Zoom sessions on the topic of Civic Engagement (all of which will be recorded); b) participate in discussion assignments following each Zoom session; c) develop a syllabus to include Civic Engagement components, such as learning objectives, relevant assignments, grading criteria, and assessment strategies.

There will be three 75-minute Zoom sessions on the following topics:

Wednesday October 6th from 11:30 AM to 12:30PM

- What is Civic Engagement?
- Civic Engagement initiatives around the United States
- Civic Engagement at Cleveland State University
- Civic Engagement as one of the GenEd skills areas: objectives
- Example of a syllabus

Wednesday October 20th from 11:30AM to 12:30PM

- Course syllabus models
- Assignments
- Grading
- Portfolio

Wednesday November 3rd from 11:30AM to 12:30PM

- Targeted courses
- Involved Faculty's plans
- Pilot Project for Spring 2022
