The University Scholars Program, housed in the Jack, Joseph & Morton Mandel Honors College, provides scholastic opportunities for exceptional students with high GPAs. The program offers talented students unique opportunities. The program seeks participation from traditional students who have taken honors courses in high school or students with high standardized exam scores (e.g., SAT or ACT). Non-traditional and part-time students who meet the minimum criteria are also encouraged to apply and participate in the program. As University Scholars participants, students have the opportunity to enroll in honor level courses, work directly with professors on research projects and enroll in special sections of designated courses.
