Construction activities and events that could impact mobility on campus this week:

Center for Innovation in Health Professions

Location impacted: Entire block surrounding the site of the old Viking Hall and East 22nd Street, north to Chester Avenue.

Construction of the new Center for Innovation in Health Professions has begun and fencing has been erected around the entire block. The sidewalks will be closed surrounding the block on East 21st Street, Prospect Avenue, and East 22nd Street. The sidewalk on Euclid Avenue will remain open to pedestrian traffic and may be closed periodically during construction.

The western northbound lane of East 22nd Street, from Euclid Avenue to Chester Avenue, will be closed to vehicular traffic starting Monday, January 13, 2014 and should reopen in late February. For access into the Student Center parking lot, entry will be off of East 21st Street. The west side sidewalk along East 22nd Street from Euclid Avenue to Chester Avenue will also be closed for the same duration - no pedestrian traffic will be allowed.

The new Center for Innovation in Health Professions will be completed in the summer of 2015. Please check these notices periodically for updates and road/sidewalk closures.

Please follow posted alternative routes and avoid walking in the Street along 21st & 22nd.

Pedestrian access to the buildings will be maintained at all times, however some doors and or pedestrian routes will be closed from time to time depending on construction activities. Detours and alternative routes will be posted, and notifications will be sent out in advance.

Law Library Sole Practitioner

Location Impacted: The construction is in the western portion of the Law Library ground floor along East 18th Street.

The Law Library will have construction going on for the Law Library Sole Practitioner Suite. Construction is anticipated to be complete by Monday, January 20, 2014. The Sole Practitioner is a project for new lawyers who have passed their bar exams and wish to start their own sole practice. A construction barricade will be erected to minimize dust and noise. We are recommending that studying be done on other floors. We hope that the inconvenience will be worthwhile. Thank you for your understanding and cooperation while we add four more study spaces to the Library and a suite of 10 offices for this incubator project.
