ABOUT US

- Named after the late Dr. Ronald E. McNair, African American physicist and NASA astronaut.
- Federally sponsored by the U.S. Department of Education.
- Focused on Science, Technology, Engineering, and Math disciplines.
- Participants prepare for Ph.D. programs through involvement in research and scholarly activities.
- Scholars are academically accomplished first generation college students from economically disadvantaged backgrounds, or that hail from underrepresented groups in higher education.

MESSAGE FROM THE DIRECTOR

We are very proud of our McNair Scholars. CSU McNair Alumni enrich our workforce with their knowledge and expertise, work ethics, and individual talents. Whether they continue their journeys far away or nearby, they make a difference in their fields. Our current Scholars are following in their footsteps. Last Fall, they presented their research posters here at CSU. About half of them will also present posters and give talks at Conferences this Spring.

We look forward to celebrating their achievements later this April (End of Year Celebration, April 11, 2023) and giving them a great send-off to graduate schools and wherever their paths may lead.
